

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

FORMER WESTCHESTER COUNTY EXECUTIVE ANDY SPANO'S
1ST LIVE SHOW OF HIS INCREASINGLY POPULAR RADIO PROGRAM

TOPIC: THE RAGING DEBATE OF ENERGY AND HOW OUR PAST, CURRENT AND FUTURE ENERGY ADDICTION CONFLICTS WITH OUR COLLECTIVE BEST INTEREST

Westchester County, New York, July 12, 2010 ---Please join former Westchester County Executive Andy Spano and his co-host Dr. Norman Jacknis and Tom Creel for their riveting radio show called, "Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow" on W.V.O.X. - 1460AM at 10am on July 12, 2010.

This cutting-edge program has amazingly enjoyed a meteoric rise with what appears to be a legion of forward-thinking listeners that tune in for their weekly dose of unfiltered talk radio. For the first time, Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow will be aired live on July 12, 2010 at 10am on WVOX /1460AM. You can participate in the conversation by calling in at (914) 636-0110 and discuss this week's topic on energy and alternative energy, which is a raging debate among residents from Westchester County /Hudson Valley to the oil soaked shores of Louisiana.

The show will use the oil spill in the Gulf as the backdrop for a discussion of how energy issues – local and not-so-local – have broad reaching impacts and how we need to consider the extent to which we disrupt natural resources and potentially whole regional economies in the pursuit of all energy sources whether fossil fuels (the Past) or more sustainable sources like natural gas/nuclear (the Present), towards a more balanced, and fully informed view of the Future.

Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow will then bring the discussion closer to home with the subject, if a terrorist attack at the Indian Point plant could disrupt, if not wholly contaminate, the NYC water supply (the worst case scenario/estimated period of absolute contamination was 10 years) which would effectively shut down New York City, not to mention the entire regional economy for an entire decade. This reinforces (for some) the fact that while nuclear is a good, somewhat-clean, source of energy, some believe it does not belong within the envelope of the NYC Metropolitan area.

So please join us Monday, July 12 and every Monday thereafter at 10AM as we discuss some of the pressing local, national and international issues including global warming,

Indian Point, the Gulf Coast oil spill and how all of this relates to our historical, present and future personal energy addiction.

Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow with Andy Spano unleashed, unencumbered and unplugged Monday's at 10:00am on WVOX 1460AM.

You can also listen to all the previous shows of Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow at www.andyspano1460.com. You can also ask questions by going to the Official Andy Spano Facebook profile, Twitter and Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow Facebook Fan page and post your comments and or questions.